

BRIGADE COMMANDER

Fatima Lee Laugo

Fatima Lee Laugo from Morse High School Army JROTC is the Brigade Commander for the 22-23 SY.

Fatima will ensure to preserve the dynamic of the brigade staff. She is responsible for the proper communication and operation amongst all units and for maintaining the vision of the SDUSD JROTC program.

She aspires to build on the revitalization the last brigade cohort envisioned with the restoration of the program after the COVID-19 pandemic. Additionally mending better connections between all units.

OUTSIDE OF JROTC

Fatima is an FAA Licensed Drone Pilot and UAS flight instructor. She leads a non-profit organization that aims to educate young female & non-binary students on STEM and Aviation. She is currently in flight school studying towards her Private Pilots License. She has experience coaching an all-female robotics team to regional semifinals. At Morse, she is responsible for the Model United Nations program as the club president. She is passionate about public speaking & educational advocacy from experiences in debate, speaking to City Council, and being a featured speaker at the largest global aerospace research conference to demand female representation in the STEM industry.

AFTER HIGHSCHOOL

After high school, she hopes to double major in Aerospace Engineering and Political Science at a T20 or the US Air Force Academy. She dreams of becoming a pilot for the US Air Force or a lawyer striving to aid marginalized communities and close educational inequity gaps, particularly in STEM.

Fatima hopes to continue and prioritize the restoration of the program due to the COVID-19 pandemic that halted a sense of community and opportunities to reach goals. She aims to reestablish proper resources and communication as needed by the units and brigade; especially those from marginalized areas to have an equitable experience in JROTC.
